

4TH BAVARIAN MACRO DAY

Call for Papers

The Bavarian Macro Day is intended to foster exchange between PhD students, PostDocs and professors interested in Macroeconomics from all Bavarian universities.

The 4th Bavarian Macro Day will be hosted at

Friedrich-Alexander Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg on May 16, 2025

We start at 10am and intend to have a maximum of 7 presentation slots (45 minutes each). Our plan is to have presentations from PhD students and PostDocs of 30 minutes followed by a discussion of a (more) senior person.

There will be coffee breaks as well as a lunch break. The Macro Day ends at 5pm (at the latest) so that everybody can travel to Nuremberg and back on the same day. You are of course welcome to join for a dinner (pay yourself).

Those interested in presenting a paper should send a draft of the paper to fabian.kindermann@ur.de. The deadline for applications is

January 31, 2025

We will make sure to have a quick decision-making process and will strive to create a balanced program covering papers from different fields and with different methodologies.

Those interested in participating (and probably in discussing a paper) should indicate this by email as well with the same deadline.

Should you have any questions, feel free to contact Fabian Kindermann any time.

Please forward this call to everyone who may be interested in participating at this event, especially your PhD students and PostDocs.

We are looking forward to a great day.

All the best,

Jonas Dovern, Fabian Kindermann, and Christian Merkl
